VIVELO.AI is a European platform for automated audiovisual production that enables the creation of radio spots, promotional video content and audiobooks from text assignments, without a studio and without a shooting day.

VIVELO.AI is a platform that changes the rules of audiovisual production. It is backed by the startup AI Production – a team with deep roots in film and advertising that has combined decades of experience with state-of-the-art artificial intelligence.

At the core of VIVELO.AI is an idea that sounds simple but changes everything: digitize a professional actor once and deploy them anywhere. Voice, face, personality – stored, ready to use. From a text input, a spot with your favorite actor is created in minutes, without a studio, without a shoot day, without compromising quality.

The platform does not cover only one format. Radio spots, TV commercials, in-store audio, audiobooks, podcasts, video content – everything is created automatically, on demand, in any language. This opens the door not only to local studios, but also to agencies and corporations across Europe who want to communicate quickly, efficiently and consistently across multiple markets at once.

Actors are getting new passive reception from their digital twin. Sponsors gain access to a growing library of European talent without the logistics of traditional filming. VIVELO.AI is not just a tool. It’s a new model for how content can be created.
